REPORT FROM THE DIRECTOR AND PRESIDENT

Despite the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the Association of Marshall Scholars (AMS) continued to advance its core objectives in 2021: strengthening the Scholarship, supporting US-UK ties, and building engagement across the alumni community.

ENGAGEMENT

In 2021, the AMS benefited from strong alumni engagement: more than 475 members volunteered their time, expertise and support in leadership roles, including serving on the AMS Advisory Board, the AMS Board of Directors and Officers, the AMS Director's Circle, and as regional events coordinators, outreach volunteers, program speakers, donors, and as members of Application Reading and Selection Committees.

SCHOLARSHIP

The British Government announced 41 new winners of the Marshall Scholarship in December 2021. The 2022 class features the largest number of Service Academy graduates in the scholarship's history, with seven Marshall Scholars hailing from the US Military Academy (three), US Naval Academy (two) and the US Air Force Academy (two).

Over the course of 2021, alumni of the Scholarship continued to volunteer to serve on Application Reading and Selection Committees, as well as on the Outreach and Diversity Committee – a group that includes representatives from the Marshall Aid Commemoration Commission (MACC) the British Embassy, Selection Committees, the AMS, and recent or current Scholars. The latter committee is supporting a pilot effort to link alumni with fellowship advisors and prospective applicants.

To help bolster the Scholarship experience, the AMS currently offers three grants to all current scholars: (1) the Marshall Xtra grant (of 1,000 GBP per scholar), enabling each of the 94 enrolled Scholars in 2021 to further enhance their experience of British life and culture during their Marshall Scholarship program; (2) the AMS Marshall Plus grant supporting class camaraderie-building activities, such as Thanksgiving dinner together, hiking trips or theater excursions, (3) a new AMS Emergency Fund to support unforeseen circumstances and emergencies that may seriously affect Scholars' ability to conduct their research overseas.

PROGRAMMING

Over 1,149 attendees joined AMS regional and marquee programming in 2021. These programs included virtual and in-person, regionally-based and partner events, as well as larger-scale initiatives including the annual Marshall Forum and the US UK Legislative Exchange. Program speakers and participants joined from over 31 states and 13 countries including the United Kingdom. Partners and event co-hosts in 2021 included Stanford University, The Association of American Rhodes Scholars, The Harry S. Truman Scholarship Foundation, Gates Cambridge Scholars, Incite.org, Denison University, NYU, Friends of the Truman Foundation, the British-American Parliamentary Group, Hertford College Oxford, the American College of Trial Lawyers, as well as several British Consulates, the US Embassy in London and the British Embassy in Washington DC.

REGIONAL, VIRTUAL AND PARTNER EVENTS

Regional and virtual programming highlights from the past year included, from the Marshall Arts and Humanities series: a book reading with award-winning author Nicole Krauss (1996); debate on The Meritocracy Trap with Yale Law Professor Daniel Markovits (1991) and political scientist Mr. Prata Phanu Meta; a conversation on Immersion Journalism with award-winning author and journalist, and Pulitzer Prize finalist Professor Ted Conover (1982), and Professor Margot Singer (1984), Director of the Eisner Center; Denison University; and a discussion with Kannon Shanmugam (1993) and Jeffery Rosen (1986) on the Separation of Powers moderated by Nancy Fairbank (2017).

Pandemic-related programming included a discussion on COVID 19 and Economic Policy with Michigan State Professor Lisa Cook (1986) (nominated in 2022 by President Biden to serve on the Federal Reserve Bank Board of Governors), MIT Economics Professor Jim Poterba (1980), Pine Brook Road Partners co-founder Howard Newman (1969) and Rahul Rehki (2013), a Director at Lazard, and a distillation of lessons learned from the pandemic with Kaiser Health News Editor-in-Chief Dr. Elisabeth Rosenthal (1978), Boston Children's Hospital physician Dr. Ben Reis (1996) and United Nations officer Sophie Rutenbar (2007).

The AMS was pleased to collaborate with the MACC and the UK Embassy to support special programs with alumni speakers such as Dan Barouch (1993), M.D., Ph.D, Principal Investigator, Barouch Laboratory and lead developer of the Johnson and Johnson Coronavirus Vaccine; and the 2021 Marshall Scholars US-based orientation program. Highlights for the orientation program included: a panel discussion on Public Service with Jocelyn Benson (1999), Secretary of State, State of Michigan, and Joshua Geltzer (2005), Deputy Assistant to the President and Deputy Homeland Security Advisor, White House's National Security Council, moderated by Lionel Foster (2002); a panel on Women in STEM with Dr. Jessica Audrey Lee (2005), Scientist, Space Biosciences Research Branch, NASA Ames Research Center, and Dr. Annina Burns (2003), Center for Surveillance, Epidemiology and Laboratory Services (CELS) at the Center for Disease Control; and a discussion on Marshalls, Climate Change and the Environment, with Collin O'Mara (2003), President & Chief Executive Officer, National Wildlife Federation; Tomas Carbonell (2003), Deputy Assistant Administrator, US Environmental Protection Agency, and Dr. Anjali Tripathi (2009), Astrophysicist, NASA Jet Propulsion Laboratory. In addition, Her Majesty's Ambassador to the United States Karen Pierce discussed her career at the United Nations and her current policy priorities in a fireside chat with Washington Post reporter Paul Sonne (2007).

The UK Consul General for New England, Peter Abbott OBE, hosted a 35 person gathering of Marshalls in November at his residence and a small lunch meeting in December with alumni and Wendy Morton, the Minister for Europe and Americas at the Foreign, Commonwealth, and Development Office (FCDO) at that time. In addition to other virtual panels, and a handful of in-person Marshall gatherings in London and New England, AMS class chairs and secretaries continued to organize virtual class reunions throughout this challenging year.

Kannon Shanmugam (1993) and Jeffrey Rosen (1986) discuss contemporary challenges surrounding the separation of powers doctrine.

MARSHALL FORUM

In September, the AMS and the American College of Trial Lawyers co-hosted the precursor dialogue to the Marshall Forum on the Rule of Law: Legal Issues in a Post-Pandemic Society. This three-quarter day program was streamed live. It brought together distinguished American and British judges, lawyers, and legal experts to discuss a series of topics, including COVID and the Courts, Separation of Powers, and Free Speech and the Internet. # COMMUNICATIONS

In 2021, the AMS increased the Marshall Scholar profile and visibility through social, digital, and earned media.

The AMS social media presence and website traffic continued to grow throughout 2021. The year saw 19% and 117% increases in the number of AMS followers on Twitter and Instagram, respectively, with 27% and 17% increases in postings on each platform. Website traffic increased 60% over 2020 website visits. Marshall Arts and Humanities programming was shared online through the AMS YouTube Channel with over 7,000 views to date.

In October, the AMS ran its annual public opinion poll with Emerson College, surveying national perceptions of US UK ties and advanced Scholarship. Two hundred and forty-seven global media outlets picked up the poll, with a total potential audience of 88 million readers. Key findings included: 76% of US residents think the US-UK alliance is more important today than it was five years ago, a sixteen-point increase from the 2020 poll findings.

The annual public opinion poll also includes questions to continue assessing brand awareness of the Marshall Scholarship. Twenty-seven percent (27%) of poll respondents had never heard of the scholarship, (as compared with 17% for the Fulbright and 11% for the Rhodes). Since 2018, the “never heard of” percentage has decreased by 29%, indicating an increasing number of Americans are becoming aware of the Marshall scholarship. In parallel, the net positive reaction to the Marshall scholarship has risen by 20.5% (from 39% in 2018 to 47% in 2021). Despite improvements, the year-on-year research underscores an important challenge for the Scholarship: how to build more awareness of the impact of the Marshall community and the Marshall Scholarship more broadly. Please visit: <https://marshallscholars.org/news-and-updates/2021-poll> for the published 2021 poll results in full.

In 2020, the AMS launched a comprehensive brand modernization with designer and Marshall Scholar Katie Clark (2005), that included a contemporary logo, color scheme, refined messaging, and a new website that had over 8,000 visitors in 2021 (~75% from the US, 10% from the UK, 15% global). The brand modernization continued into 2021, focusing on developing a new template for the Marshall Alumni Newsletter and a new digital directory for the membership accessible via secure login from the AMS website (released in 2022).

The 2021 Summer Marshall Alumni Newsletter, edited by Stanley Chang (1991), focused on Marshalls and food featuring articles on: British and Beyond, by Diana Coogle (1964) that chronicles British food’s evolution throughout history; food insecurity during COVID-19 by Sean Alexander (2016); and a tale of Britain’s best domestic products, according to Marshall Scholars, by Aroop Mukharji (2010). The 2021 Winter Newsletter focused on Marshalls and Travel and included: A Frozen Conflict in Eastern Europe by Andrew Bulovsky (2014), an Associate at Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer’s Dispute Resolution Group in Washington DC; as well as a snapshot of work by 40+ Marshall Scholars helping to advance scientific discoveries, medical responses, and remedial measures across public policy, business, education, and other sectors during the COVID pandemic. The AMS welcomed Maureen Harmon to the Newsletter team as its new editor beginning in 2022.

SCHOLARSHIP SUPPORT

In 2021, the AMS directed ~$450,000 to the United Kingdom towards strengthening the Scholarship program in several different ways.

Alumni support for the Marshall Scholarship from the AMS included: (1) an endowed scholarship created through contributions from 200+ Marshall alumni and a matching grant from Reid Hoffman CBE (1990); (2) a matching grant from the British Schools and University Foundation to support a Marshall Scholarship; and (3) alumni and other donor support for Marshall Scholarships at their respective alma maters facilitated by donations through the AMS to colleges and universities that include Sussex University; Magdalene College, Cambridge; Magdalen College, Oxford; Lincoln College, Oxford; and Bristol University (4) Marshall Xtra and AMS Emergency grant funding.

Over the past 5 years, alumni have committed ~ $1,700,000 to strengthening the Marshall Scholarships at their respective alma maters and through the avenues of support outlined above.

In 2021, the AMS offered its inaugural ten month Fellowship opportunity for members of the Marshall Community: the Leland Foundation Association of Marshall Scholars Transatlantic Academy Fellowship at Chatham House, The Royal Institute of International Affairs. The paid, post-graduate fellowship is geared towards emerging leaders with experiences from government, policy, the private sector, media and civil society, and expertise in science, technology, engineering and other fields that help further understanding of global governance challenges. For 2021, the fellowship was awarded to Rebecca Peters (2014). Her research project focuses on climate change governance in urban Asia-Pacific.

2021 ANNUAL GIVING

In 2021, the AMS received donations from over 330 scholars and partners, including 43 new donors, 11 foundations, and three corporations. In 2021, over 90% of AMS donations came from small donors, 97% of all Marshall classes participated in giving, and 39% of these classes had a participation rate of 20% or higher - with the class of 1956 leading the way at a 50% participation rate. In addition, the newest class of alumni (2018) represented 15% of new donors in 2021.

MARSHALL 2020

In the fall of 2020, the AMS launched Marshall 2020 – a $7.5 million fundraising campaign that aims to strengthen the Marshall Scholarship, build a vibrant and visible Marshall community, and support ties between the US and the UK. With a generous anchoring challenge grant by Reid Hoffman CBE (1990) and additional matching grants and new donor matches made by Anonymous (1983), Finistere Charitable Foundation (1965), and Marcus Ryu (1995), the Marshall 2020 campaign has raised just over $7M in legacy giving, pledges, donations and matching grants toward its $7.5M goal. The Marshall 2020 Campaign has received contributions from 560 donors since 2019; 157 of supporters were new donors. We are grateful to the entire community for their significant support.

FUTURE

As the global pandemic begins to subside, the AMS remains focused on strengthening the scholarship, improving its visibility, fostering connections throughout the Marshall community and furthering US-UK ties. Virtual programming will remain an essential tool for engaging Marshalls across the globe. Similarly, we are working to annualize newly expanded avenues for US/UK dialogue and alumni engagement, including the Marshall Forum and the US-UK legislative exchange. Finally, the AMS remains committed to strengthening the experience of current scholars to advance and sustain the aims of the Marshall Scholarship and the underlying values of furthering knowledge and educational exchange.
